

#1 :

Isaiah 35:5-6

Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened,
and the ears of the deaf unstopped;
then shall the lame man leap like a deer,
and the tongue of the mute sing for joy.
For waters break forth in the wilderness,
and streams in the desert.

#2 :

Romans 8:28

And we know that for those who love God all things work together for good, for those who are called according to his purpose.

#3:

“The delight and pleasure resulting from the observations of Providences, are exceeding great. It will doubtless be a part of our entertainment in heaven, to view with transporting delight how the designs and methods were laid to bring us here... How great a pleasure is it to discern how the most wise God is providentially steering all to the port of his own praise and his people’s happiness, while the whole world is busily employed in managing the sails and tugging at the oars with a quite opposite design and purpose? To see how they promote his design by opposing it, and fulfil his will by resisting it, enlarge his church by scattering it...O reader! If your heart be spiritual, and well stocked with experience, if you have recorded the ways of Providence towards you, and will but allow yourself time to reflect upon them; what a life of pleasure may you live!”

John Flavel
The Mystery of Providence

#4 :

“We shall never see the full beauty of these words till the resurrection morning. We shall then look back over our lives and know the meaning of everything that happened from first to last. We shall remember all the way by which we were led and confess that all was ‘well done.’ The why and the wherefore, the causes and the reasons of everything which now perplexes, will be clear and plain as the sun at noon-day. We shall wonder at our own past blindness, and marvel that we could ever have doubted our Lord’s love.”

J.C. Ryle