

“There are two ways whereby the blessed God condescends to manifest himself to men, his word, and his works.”

John Flavel
The Mystery of Providence

“Right now God is working all around you and in your life. One of the greatest tragedies among God’s people is that, while they have a deep longing to experience God, they are experiencing God day after day but do not know how to recognize him.”

Henry Blackaby and Claude King
Experiencing God

“O reader! If your heart be spiritual, and well stocked with experience, if you have recorded the ways of Providence towards thee, and will but allow yourself time to reflect on them; what a life of pleasure may you live!”

John Flavel
The Mystery of Providence

“(Some people) felt left out because of an unspoken assumption that unless something outwardly dramatic happens to you, then you haven’t received anything beneficial. In the afterglow of a glorious meeting, one lady approached Lance Pittlock with a worried look on her face. ‘The only thing that happened to me,’ she said, ‘is that I have this incredible inner sense of peace and joy.’ Lance reassured her that she shouldn’t feel left out if the only immediate by-product is a sense of peace and joy. That’s the fruit of the Spirit.”
