

Discussion Q's:

1-Whose arguments do you find more compelling, the continuationist's or the cessationist's?

2-If you were just left to a study of the Bible itself, without outside considerations, where do you think you would fall on the issue?

3-What do you think of my position, which allows for, but does not anticipate an outpouring of the miraculous gifts in our time?

4-In your estimation, does this debate have practical value, or is it purely academic?
