Paul’s main reason for writing the letter to the Corinthians was to address the problem of disunity among the congregation. A number of difficulties evidence this lack of unity. There was a party spirit among the people. Some identified themselves with Paul, some with Apollos, others with Peter or Christ (1 Cor. 1:10-17). This led to divisions within the church. There was an inability to work through problems which resulted in frivolous lawsuits (1 Cor. 6:1-11). Religious liberty was being practiced with no concern for the spiritual condition of others (1 Cor. 8). Spiritual gifts were sought after for personal gain rather than the edification of the church (1 Cor. 12-14). These were the pastoral issues confronting the apostle Paul in Corinth.

To combat these problems Paul appealed to the sacrament of the Lord’s Supper, and the nature of Christian love. The Lord’s Supper was instituted as a sign and seal of our oneness with Christ. Our union with Christ is the basis for our union with one another. Paul makes this clear when he taught, “The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? For we, though many, are one bread and one body; for we all partake of that one bread.” The selfishness and divisiveness that permeated the Corinthian church was inconsistent with the Lord’s Supper. When the church gathers for the Lord’s Supper it is a reminder of our unity in Christ. Paul sharply rebukes the Corinthians for their ignorance of this fact. In the very practice of the Lord’s Supper a deep seeded selfishness was revealed, “for in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk.”

The Lord’s Supper is a reminder that we exist with and for others. Self-interest, although legitimate in its proper place, must bow the knee to the interest of the corporate body. Something has gone tragically wrong when the Christian community becomes a me, me, me oriented community. The root of all the problems in Corinth was selfishness, and the apostolic remedy was love. The Biblical doctrine of love is emphatically selfless. Paul’s characterization of love bears this out: “Love suffers long and is kind; love does not envy; love does not parade itself, is not puffed up; does not behave rudely, does not seek its own, is not provoked, thinks no evil; does not rejoice in iniquity, but rejoices in the truth; bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.” (1 Cor. 13:4-7) Each time we “come together” for the Lord’s Supper we are reminded that we are part of a body, the body of Christ. If we are to function as a body, we must exercise selfless love.

This emphasis upon the corporate over the individual is needed in our age. We live in a culture dominated by self-interest. We are culturally conditioned to prioritize personal interests rather than the well-being of others (whether the church, family, or state). “Individualistic self-fulfillment,” says D. A. Carson, “becomes the prime good.” Paul’s teaching on selfless love is out of step with 21st century American life. Carson provides another cogent observation, “It has taken the end of the twentieth century to make self-centeredness a virtue.”1 This philosophy of life confronts us wherever we turn.

The Lord’s Supper serves as a safeguard against the contemporary call to selfish individualism. When we come together as God’s people, we are reminded that we are one body. We are also reminded that we function as one body through the exercise of love. The Christian community’s love for one another is one of our best forms of witness to our neighbors. This is the primary teaching of Jesus’ “new commandment.” “A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another: just as I have loved you, you also are to love one another. By this all people will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.” John 13:34-35

Millie & Sophie

Where are you from?
Both of our parents were in the military, so we have lived all over. Most recently we moved from Travis Air Force Base, California.

What brought you to Columbus?
Ian’s in the Air Force so we moved here for his job as a T-6 instructor at Columbus Air Force Base.

What is your occupation?
Ian is a pilot, and I am a stay-at-home Mom.

What is your church background?
We were both raised in the PCA church.

How did you hear about MSPC?
We heard about Main Street Presbyterian online.

What is your favorite book of the Bible or portion of Scripture?
Our favorite books of the Bible are Romans and Ephesians.

What is your favorite Christian hymn/song?
In Christ Alone

Do you have any hobbies?
Ian likes to hunt and fish, and I like crafting or DIY projects.
Spring has arrived and with it comes warmer weather, which means lots of outside time! My younger threes class is full of energy, and I knew from the first day of class that this group of inquisitive kiddos loved to be in the great outdoors. Although we may be confined to our school playground, nature is still all around us and there are so many learning opportunities.

One day the children discovered a butterfly balancing on a teeter totter. The butterfly was kind enough to stay put while the children explored its wings, antennas, etc. This sparked a conversation about its life cycle!

On a particularly warm day, the children were bringing me flowers from around the playground. Some of the flowers were full of pollen and I was able to rub some on their fingers. This led to a discussion about pollination and the importance of insects that spread pollen from flower to flower. I also reminded them that bees drink from flowers, so do not pick ALL the flowers they see.

My favorite experience teaching outside is our “pecan lesson.” We have a large pecan tree in one of our play areas. The big, tall tree came from one small pecan that grew in nutrient rich soil and had lots of sunlight. I often tell the children that they are like the little acorn. The nutrient rich soil is the Bible, and the sunlight is God’s love! I ask them what they will look like if they grow up surrounding themselves in God’s word and love. Their responses always include flexing their muscles and telling me that with God’s help they will be big and strong.

The younger threes class at Main Street Christian School has respect for our world and for God’s creatures big and small!

Ms. Emmie
Hello Ladies,

A big thank you to all who contributed to our gift card shower! We have showered our new babies and our bride.

The Easter Egg hunt will be on Saturday, April 3rd, here at the church. What does an Egg hunt need? Eggs stuffed with candy! We will be stuffing eggs on Thursday, April 1st, at 1 pm. Come help if you can.

WIC in the Morning will meet April 6th in the WIC room at 10. WIC at Night will meet April 7th at 7 p.m. at the home of Janie Williams.

Easter is such a special and spiritual time for us. We get to rejoice and celebrate all Jesus accomplished by his death and resurrection. I love Christmas and I know lots of people do, but Christmas would be nothing without Easter. Why would anyone celebrate a baby’s birth as we do, if we didn’t know what he did at the end of his life?

Have a wonderful and blessed Easter!
In his service,

Janie
