

In America today, we live in a collective chaos of life – real and fake.

The three women at the tomb had some collective chaos going on also:

They didn't think about the stone before they left for the tomb.

They didn't think there would be an angel there.

They didn't think Jesus might not be there.

They didn't think Jesus would rise from the dead.

They didn't think that they would be the messengers of this astounding news.

1. We need the drama of Jesus.

2. We need the mission of Jesus.