MARK'S STORY

I did not grow up in a spiritual background or in the church so it wasn't a part of my life growing up. I appreciated faith, I just never knew exactly how to practice it. I got pretty involved into my faith my junior and senior year of high school, but never fully understood what everything meant. After some things happened between senior year I didn't want to be known for my faith anymore. Once that happened I got into all the college life offers and strayed pretty far. I bounced around 3 different schools in a year before I finally settled in. Once I got to K-State things just got worse and finally came to a point in my life where I realized my priorities were all mixed up. I knew I wanted to change, I just didn't know how so I prayed that God would show me how, and a couple days later I met a guy named Austin who shared the gospel with me and I took off from there. I started to prioritize my faith again and went to the summer project that summer and got my perspective shifted. From that moment on I was just committed to knowing God deeper.
